

December 4th, 2020

To Whom It May Concern:

I've had the honor of collaborating with Michael Kaplan on multiple occasions and I am happy to offer my highest recommendation for Phase2 Advantage. The Murillo Leadership Group considers Phase2 Advantage a critical strategic partner in our Workforce Development & Career Consulting to information technology organizations, cybersecurity practices, and both current and would-be cybersecurity professionals throughout the United States.

Phase2 Advantage's philosophy, offerings and delivery methods successfully help clients meet current needs while preparing for the future. The long-term ROI for consistently closing critical performance gaps effectively, while helping ambitious professionals upskill and deliver greater value along their career paths, is often incalculable.

Having our roots in national-level Information Assurance education and training, we know sound, relevant, and sophisticated information & cybersecurity training when we see it. As a highly credentialed provider, Phase2 Advantage represents the leading edge and future of cybersecurity training. Especially during these times of Pandemic, Phase2 Advantage's program structures, instructional methods, learning management system, and assessments ensure:

1. High relevance in today's tech & threat landscape;
2. Powerful execution; and
3. Overall effective cybersecurity practice and strong career advancement.

In conclusion, it is said that people often judge books by their cover. So, it's worth noting that Phase2 Advantage always makes an inspiring impression by:

1. Providing high-caliber training materials and instructional support tools that students are excited to engage with in training and reference later in their practice; and
2. Presenting themselves professionally with the utmost character, enthusiasm, care, respect, expertise, and humility that one might hope for in a leading global training provider.

It is my sincere hope that you will find your endeavors with Michael Kaplan and Phase2 Advantage to be enjoyable, fruitful, and fulfilling in every way.

My best is yours,

Jason J. Murillo

Founder & Managing Principal
Murillo Leadership Group, LLC
JMurillo@MurilloLeadership.Com